Identifying and Writing Challenges

Directions: Fill in each form using the Future Problem Solving categories list and facts from your research to identify challenges related to your central theme. Use the guidelines below to write 5 high quality challenges in the correct Future Problem Solving format:

1. Present the facts: Choose facts from relevant research or the future scene.
2. Think about each fact selected: Think of an important cause of this fact or an important effect that could result from the fact. Add it to the challenge.
3. Describe WHY it is a challenge: Use “may or might” instead of “will or shall.” Avoid absolutes: Instead of “all,” use “some.” Avoid extremes: Instead of “riot,” use “social unrest.”
4. Use topic vocabulary: This will improve the quality of your writing and demonstrate research.
